Routine Is "Spiced" With Extras in '78

Seven periods a day, five days a week, NCHS students learned more than reading, writing, and arithmetic.

Efforts were made to use different methods of learning, including dinners in American Problems class, games of monopoly in bookkeeping and quiz bowl in history — all which added a little "spice" to the daily routine.

Vocational school brought skills of auto mechanics, cosmetology, horticulture and many others. This year more than 30 NCHS students put up with long bus rides in return for skills to get them right into the job market.

Skills were also taught at the home school in addition to general and college prep courses.

Journalism class put out a bi-monthly newspaper, several history classes used video tapes of "Roots" and "Holocaust," and guest speakers came from the sheriff's department, Sunnyside School, the University of Toledo and other areas — all changing the pace of the usual class.

Field trips to the Art Museum, "Book Country," the Court House in Bryan, Siebenaler's Equipment, Aro Corporation, The Toledo Blade, FFA National Convention and even "corn picking" for all vo. ag. classes brought the real world into the classroom this year.

Parent-Student Exchange Adds Zest

Excitement! What's that?

PALS Day was probably the most extraordinary day in the beginning of the year (unless one counts the 5 days off for blizzard conditions, a couple of days of fog and one for a flood, of course!) Some parents learned to play 5 notes in band; but then again, some hardly got a sound from the instrument. And others tooled leather (or pounded thumbs, whichever came first), as they followed their son or daughter's normal school schedule.

Assemblies including the drama class's Christmas plays, yearbook's sales skit (remember Hong Kong Fooey?), and singing groups like the "Sunshine Express" and the select group from Lima High School joined pep sessions and the demonstration by the electric company in "depriving" students of some of their classes.

Christmas time brought student council's door decorating contest, with Mr. Terry Fox's "Star Wars" winning first prize.

Spring brought the Mini Course Day with everything from horseback riding, canoeing and bicycling to cake decorating and karate — and for the second year, rain.

Early birds on the basketball teams were treated to the annual "Breakfast of Champions," while just about anyone could get out of a study hall to work for a teacher, including those who typed the Patchwork of Expression, those who helped with the audio-visual equipment, elementary teachers' aids from FTA, and yearbook staff members trying to meet deadlines.

There were days to stay in bed, but also special days to look to for excitement.

1. Mrs. Carolyn Downing and Mrs. Wilma Kurtz work on leather during PALS Day along with regular industrial arts class members, Scott Motter and Bob Snyder.
2. Blizzard conditions keep buses from running for 5 days.
3. Members of the Lima "Spartainaires" entertain at an assembly.
4. "Baseline" and other drills get into a skit at a pep session.
5. "Sunshine Express" draws Mr. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon, and even Mr. Dyer into their act.
6. "Star Wars" captures the imagination and 1st prize for Mr. Fox's class at Christmas.
7. Use of a hot dog makes an impressive safety demonstration.
8. Mr. Dyer watches the start of bicycling on Mini Course Day.
9. Cake decorating gives an opportunity for licking tasty fingers during Mini Course Day.
10. Corisa Bandeen and Brenda Sumner help serve breakfast to the boys basketball teams.
11. Sue Orcutt, Brenda Sumner, Gwen Whitis and Tami Carrothers spend time typing and editing Patchwork of Expression.
12. Brad Keough assists Mr. P. Robert Meuleman with projectors.
13. President Carter and Amy have center stage in one original Christmas play by the drama class.

Science Dominates Honors This Year

Academic "greatness" is rewarded in many areas throughout the year. Eleven high school students competed in the District Science Fair after receiving high excellent or superior ratings at N.C. Jeff Gunn, Connie Spencer and Craig Conrad were rated superior at district and Craig also received a superior in state. Jeff Gunn participated in the Science and Engineering Day at Patrick Henry and through top honors there went on to compete in Anaheim, California and as a result of his showing there will compete in an international event in Albuquerque, New Mexico this summer. Other awards presented in the awards program included re-presentation of FHA and FFA awards which had been first given out at their combined banquet. Club awards were presented by advisors and those students who represented certain academic areas in the scholastic testing program also received awards. As a result of that testing program, three freshmen placed in the district and the state: Jamie Grimm, Amy Kwader and Roy Hylander. Two art students, Janet Mick and Bill Staniski received honors from displays at the Defiance College High School Art Competition. Top senior awards went to Kathy Scott and David St. John. Those who made the honor roll 3 times were also honored at the Scholastic Banquet held the first weekend in May.

11. Varsity cheerleaders prepare signs for the tournament trail to Bryan.
12. Ted Frame and Jerry Sickmiller get in condition for wrestling by running the stairs.
13. Joie Coy, Connie Spencer and Jodi Taylor stop for a break while selling yearbook ads.

After School Sports Show Success

Those who participated in after school sports were involved in golf or cross country in the fall and junior high or freshman basketball in the winter.

Golf team metbers got sports off on the right foot with an 8 win and 9 loss record. The team missed going to District by only 3 strokes when they participated in Sectional at Ironwood. Curt Bandeen got ahe Eagle Award in golf.

Cross Country team members participated on an improved team, as they scored some meets in the win column. It was basically a young team. George Bible earned the Eagle Award for cross country.

Junior high basketball gave some exciting moments as the 8th grade team took the BBC League championship and brought home the trophy. Seventh graders ended up in the consolation finals of their tournament.

Freshmen posted a 7-6 record and among the more memorable moments was the 33-31 win over Edon the second meeting for the two this year. Most disappointing had to be the 35-34 double overtime loss to Pettisville which knocked them out of the BBC tournament.

1. John Kidston heads around final flag.
2. Grant Gilcher keeps stride at Hilltop.
3. Steve Ely chips a short one up toward the green.
4. Scott Ely out runs the opponents on a break away.
5. Freshman cheerleaders use pompoms to emphasize cheer.
6. Freshmen take it in through a crowd for 2 points.
7. Freshman, Dennis Dohm, brings the ball down the floor.
8. Eighth grade team poses with victory-in-the-tournament smiles.
9. Curt Bandeen takes aim off the tee.

Girls Set Pace in Spring

Spring brought disappointment for the baseball. Rain cancelled many games and an ice storm cancelled a spring trip to Cincinnati. Only 13 games were played and the JV's had more games cancelled than they played. Varsity season record was 8-5.

Todd Martin had both the highest batting average and the lowest ERA, was named to the BBC second team and pitched for the Northwest Ohio Coach's All Star game. Todd also got the Eagle Award. Dave Rutledge was named to BBC second team.

Girls track fared the best of the spring sports, with Teresa Brown and Diane Bible pacing the team. The team placed 5th in the Blade Relays and 6th in Sectionals. Eagle Award went to Jill Deetz. Monica Lanius got Most Improved.

Boys track consisted of many first year runners, so hopes for the future are high. Dennis Dohm got the award for the Most Promising and Brad Keough, for Most Improved.

For the first year most track meets including sectionals and district were co-ed.

Do NC Students Ever Go Home?

Who said once school is out students go home and watch T.V.? Or that teachers were always busy grading papers? Whoever it was must not have been a great scholar because that's not the way things happened around ol' N.C.H.S.

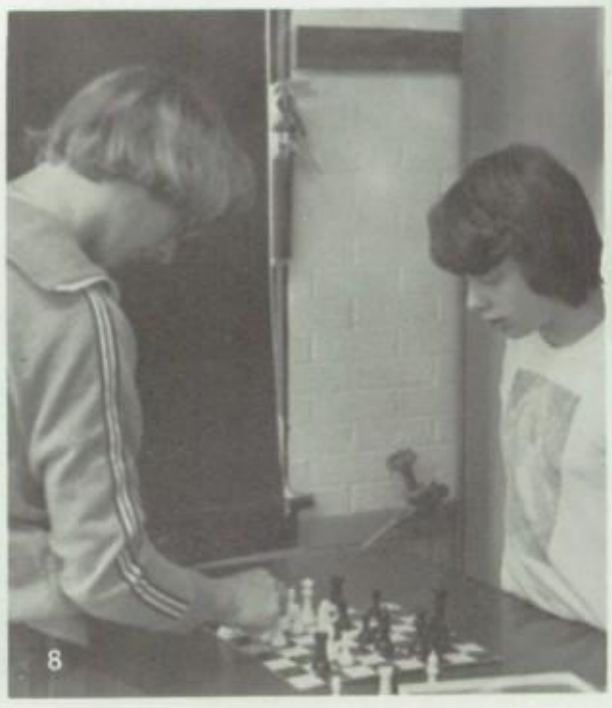
At 2:47, the bell rang and lockers slammed as the cement outside felt the stampede of roughly 200 pair of running feet. Now, granted, some of those feet — along with their bodies — went home and watched T.V. As was mentioned in previous pages, others had some sports practice or contest. Still others went to work.

Then there were those who stayed after school for some reason — pep club met on Thursdays making signs and messes (only the latter weren't usually planned). They also decorated for awards programs. Student council and the junior class could also be found making and putting up decorations for the homecoming and the prom, respectively.

Other groups such as library club and photography club met after school, as did the yearbook staff, occasionally. Write-ups, layouts and pictures being developed (or uh, ruined) in the darkroom made deadlines interesting.

Playing chess and talking to teachers were also among the voluntary pastimes, while detention was rather involuntary.

School was out, but the building wasn't empty. It may have been quiet for a few seconds; then it was time for nighttime activities.



1. 2:46 and the rush is on out the door.
2. Wendy West, Todd Sickmiller and Carol Walkinhood stop at lockers at the day's end.
3. Jodi Taylor spends time finishing the advertising section of the yearbook.
4. Late hours and last minute developing found Mark Kirkendall and Paul Kurtz "in the dark."
5. Betty and Susan Grimm put finishing touches on spirit signs.
6. Pete DeLille and Rick Brink pause for a break in the teachers' lounge.
7. Denise Keil and Melissa Smith check the backdrop for the awards program.
8. Chess playing occupied after school hours for Jeff Gunn and Tim Ross.
9. Linda Bennett sorts through Christmas decorations for the homecoming dance.
10. Jon Swartz chats with Russ Oxender after class.
11. Chuck Mason has detention duty.

Boogie Down And Get to Work!

"Boogie down and hold tight. Get ready for a Boogie Night!" That could have been the motto of many North Central students for the '77-'78 school year.

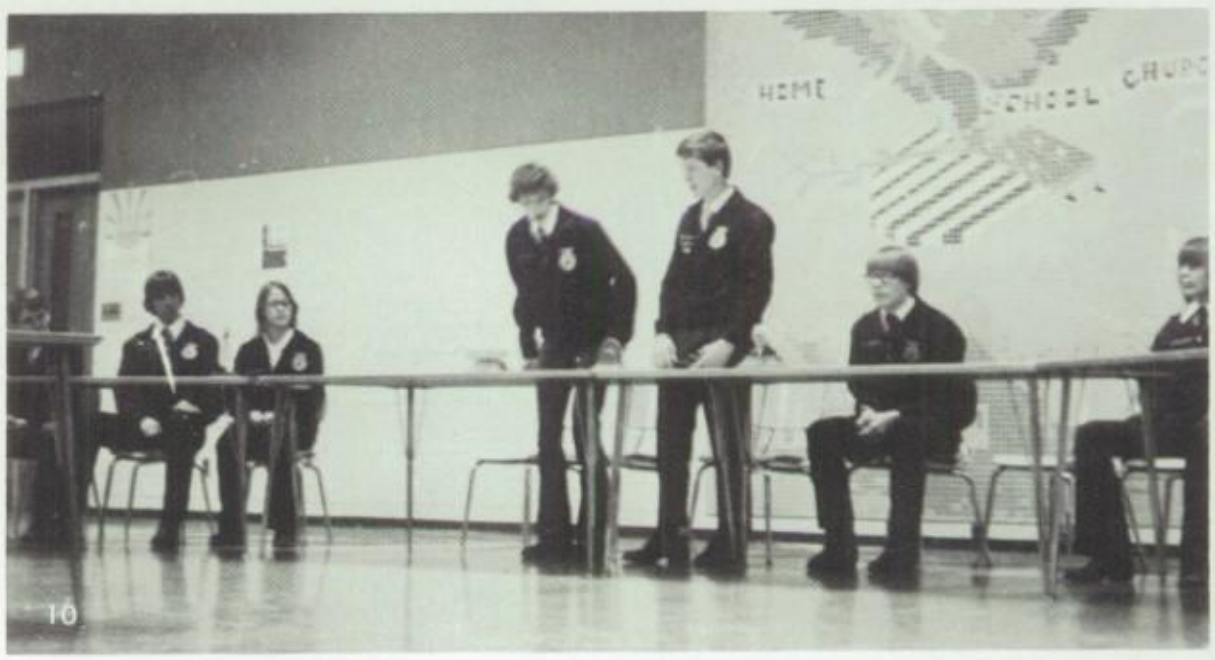
There was a time for work and a time for play; and believe it or not, NC students could be found doing both into the night. It wasn't all work and no play, however. Try not to move during makeup while everyone is laughing at your costume. Or try to keep from peeking out behind the curtain to watch dress rehearsal.

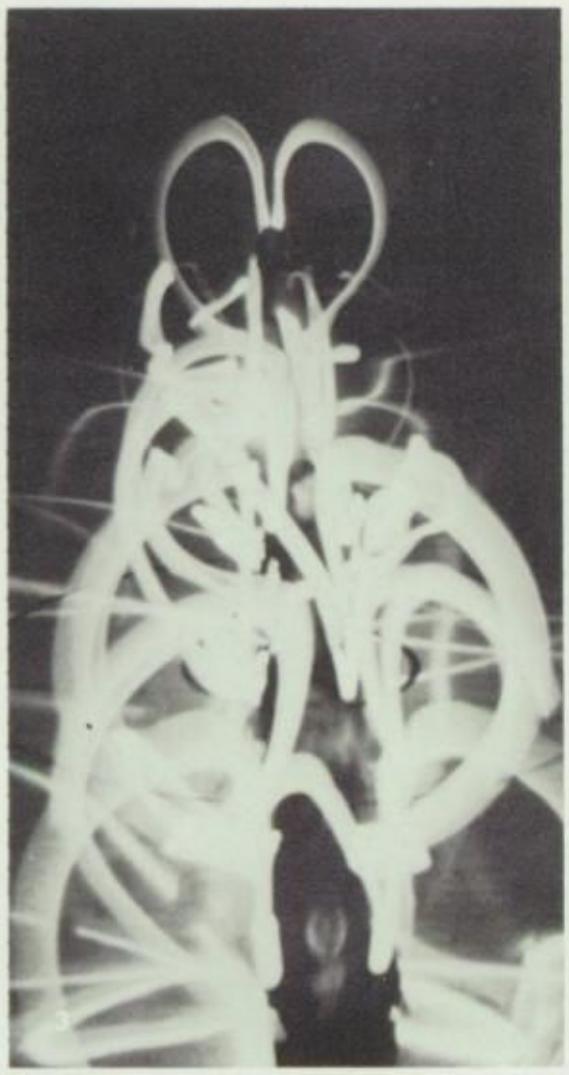
Ted Frame found it not all work when he got his "award" at Van Buren, too. Basketball games, wrestling matches, parents' nights, flashlight and pom pom routines — it was a lot of hard work getting there, but the final results were something to be proud of.

Awards assemblies were annual events along with the chorus getting ready for state contest. Receiving another superior rating at district, the chorus traveled to state along with the band, which for the first time in NC history received a superior rating at district.

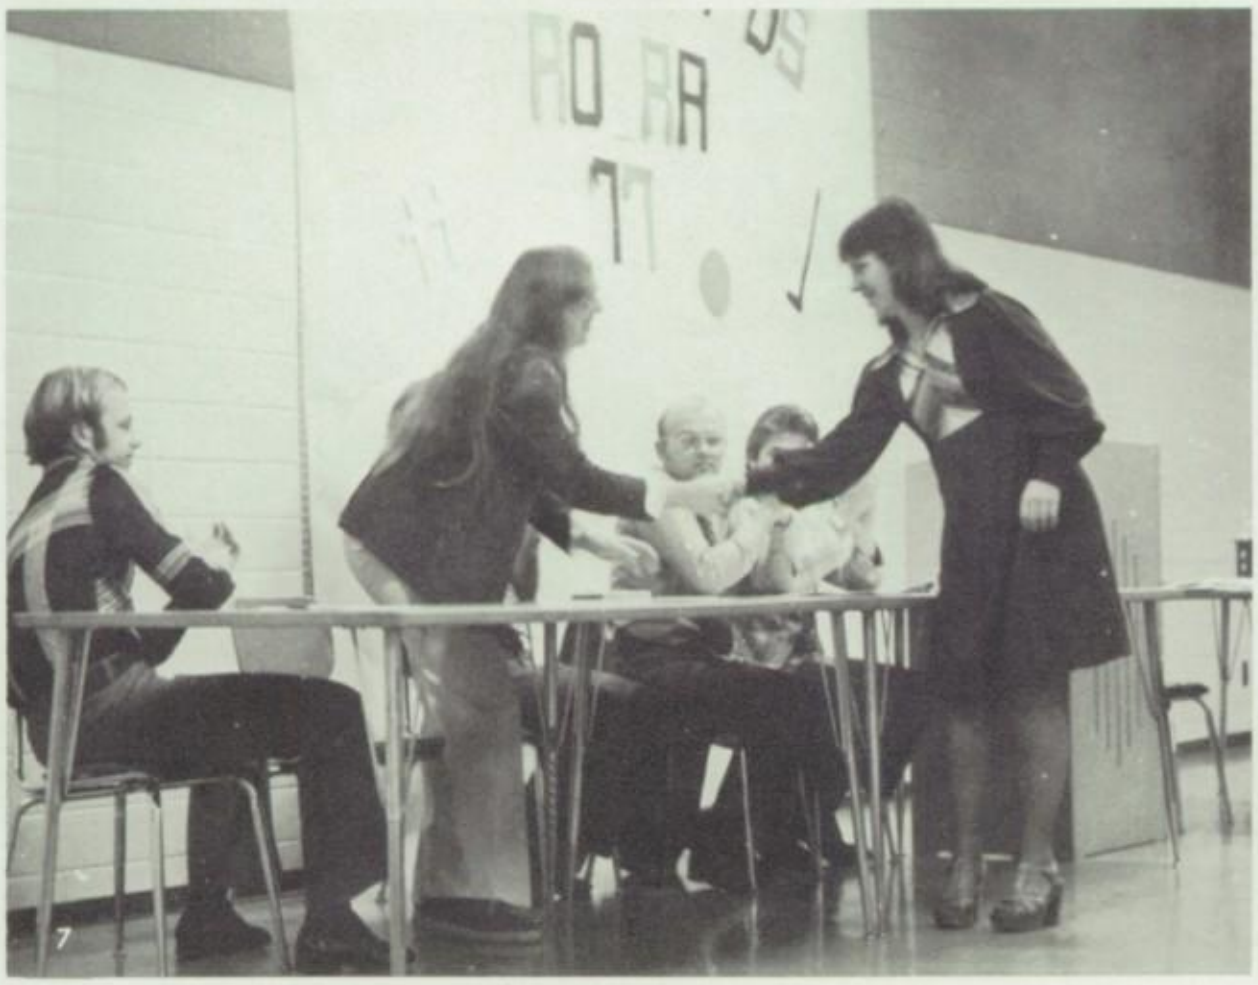
Also receiving a superior rating was the FFA for its work in parliamentary procedure, a contest hosted by NC for all of Williams county.

Sometimes NCHS participants forewent supper, sometimes a favorite TV show, but most of the time it was homework. Whatever the case was, NC's small amount of students were involved in a large amount of activities and were busy on those Boogie Nights throughout the year.





1. Chorus practices for contest at night.
2. Jon Swartz works lights for a play.
3. Cheerleaders entertain with flashlight routine at Stryker game.
4. Ted Frame receives more than a medal at Van Buren.
5. Chorus members pose for camera at Rock-A-Thon.
6. Terry Fox sits among the students at a ball game.
7. Team captain, Julie Stephens, presents a momento to Coach Ellis as other coaches look on.
8. Angie Eckley supervises Corisa Bandeen as she makes up Julie Stephens.
9. Donna Robison peeks out the curtain as she prompts for dress rehearsal.
10. Members of the FFA parliamentary procedure team participate in contest.
11. Varsity and reserve participants in basketball listen to an introudction at Parents' Night.



"Rest Assured:" They Laughed

NC's drama department chose the play, "Rest Assured" this year and it was performed on the evenings of November 4 and 5, 1977. This comedy in three acts was about two fathers who continually fought about the marriage of their children.

Tim Moore played Mr. Morelock who didn't care about anything but money and absolutely forbade his daughter to marry a poor boy. Jerry Burt played Luigi Lanconi who wanted his son to marry Mr. Morelock's daughter.

Several other NC dramatists backed up the two fathers as the fight continued until some very strange things — including the appearance of "Lucifer" (Julie Stephens) — happened to get Mr. Morelock to change his ideas about money and to allow his daughter to marry Luigi's son. The play ended with a bang, leaving the crowd roaring.

Director for the play was Darwin Krill and the student director was Kathy Scott.

1. Julie Stephens (alias Lucifer) tries to apply as a handiman at the play's conclusion.
2. Tim Moore pleads with Shane Sumner and Monica Lanius.
3. Jerry Burt and Lori Motter are united once again in "heaven."
4. Teresa Brown, cast as a maid, prepares to check on the sleeping Mr. Morelock.
5. Shane Sumner reads Tim Moore's temperature.
6. Kerry Fisher, knocked out by Janet Mick's hammer, collapses.
7. Tim Moore complains to Kerry Fisher about his inability to sleep.
8. Janet Mick describes "All About Wrestling" to her "sister" Laura Messner as "mom" Monica Lanius looks on.
9. Tim Moore can't understand why no one notices him.
10. Jerry Burt relaxes, using Amy Kwader as a pillow.

Mr. Eckley escorts daughter, Angie, Senior Attendant. 9. Junior Attendant, Jill Deetz, enters with her dad. 10. Lori opens the dance with Lee Steinke. 11. Members of the court join the dance.

Lori Motter Crowned '77 Queen

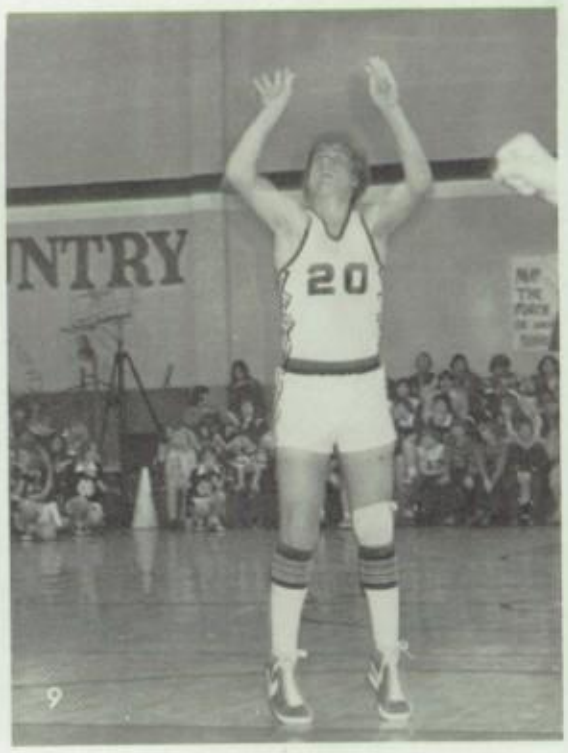
Lori Motter was crowned Homecoming Queen Saturday, December 3, by last year's Queen, Cathy Deetz. Members of Lori's court were Angie Eckley, Senior Attendant; Jill Deetz, Junior Attendant; Gwen Whitis, Sophomore Attendant; and Joie Coy, Freshman Attendant. It was a successful evening for N.C., as they defeated Fremont, Indiana, 64-57 for a thrilling homecoming victory. A new Queen, an exciting victory, and lots of happiness made the 1977-78 Homecoming memorable. Student Council sponsored the dance, "Evergreen" and followed their theme with decorations of a snow-covered mural and a live 14-foot Christmas tree. Music was presented by Nickelodeon.

HOMECOMING

Varsity Makes Sectional Finals

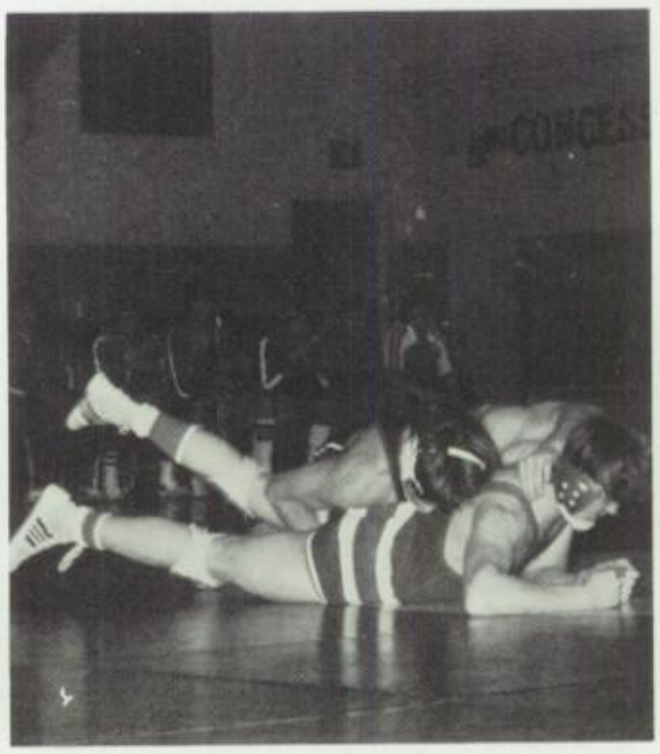
N.C.'s varsity basketball season record was 10-12 this year, including tournaments. The probable highlight of the season was the battle against Stryker in sectional finals, when Stryker was ahead at the half by only 2 points. Another bright spot — for a while — was the Antwerp game at the end of the regular season where the scorewas 47-47 and the Archers broke the tie at the sound of the buzzer (or was it after?) Perhaps the low point of the season was the loss to Hilltop in a game which saw the Cadets gain the lead after being tied at the half and then go on to win by 3. Named to honorable mention on the BBC team were Steve Ely and Todd Martin, both of whom were in the top ten in scoring for the league. Steve Ely got the Eagle Award.

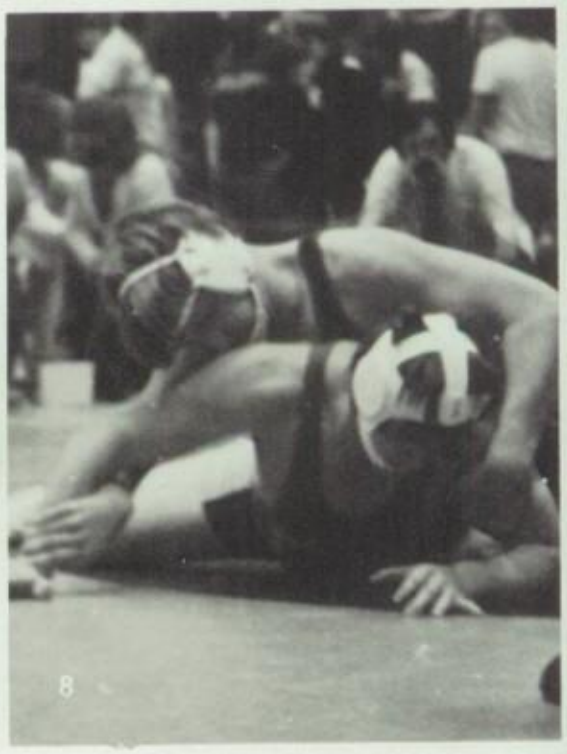
Reserve team record pointed to a successful year with 16 wins and 4 losses. Highlight of the season may well have been the Stryker games, the first of which showed N.C. on top 47-45. One of the most memorable games would probably be the one with Ottawa Hills where the jv's really "smoked" them by 40 points. Pettisville was a real disappointment as two shots in the final seconds failed to drop and the Eagles had to chalk up a loss.

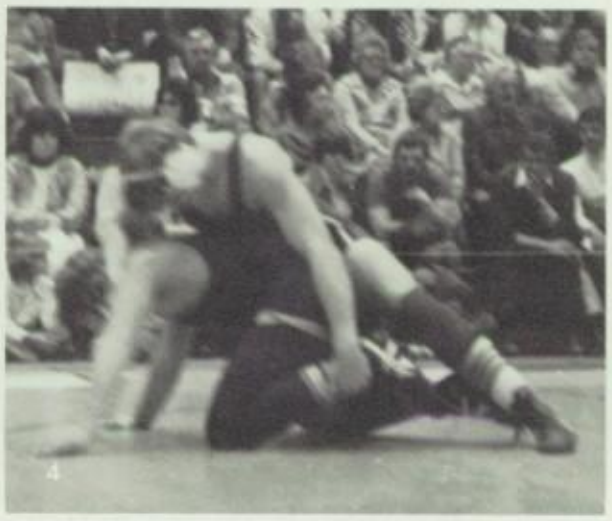


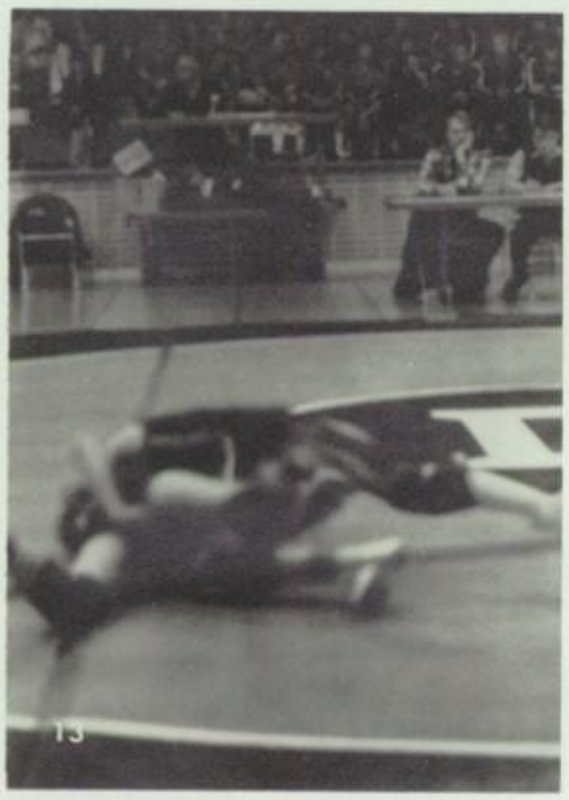
1. Barb Boetz, reserve captain, builds support for the jv's.
2. Al Henry causes a turnover for the Eagles.
3. Brook Bandeen goes for the ball in a jump against Pettisville.
4. Coach Rob Sheldon talks out strategy with Todd Martin and John Kidston.
5. Varsity cheerleaders form a pyramid during the varsity line up.
6. Lee Steinke runs the Eagle offense in a game against Fayette.
7. Several varsity team members battle for the rebound.
8. Steve Ely scores two as Al Henry backs him up.
9. Curt Bandeen shoots for a free throw.
10. John Kidston shuffles to avoid an opponent.
11. Brook Bandeen and Mike Funkhouser hustle defensively.
12. Doug Nearing, with a lay up, adds two more.
13. Varsity team members plan ahead to outwit opponent's offense.

1. Team members who received awards pose for the paper.
2. Tim Rickman gains control over an opponent.
3. Frank Downing works for an escape.
4. Ted Frame breaks down his opponent.
5. Brad Keough, Todd Sniadecki, and Jon Logan loosen up before a match.
6. Cheering teammate on from the sidelines are Joe Burkard, Jerry Spencer, Jon Logan and Jay Wiles.
7. Jon Logan turns his opponent over and goes for the pin.
8. Ted Frame prepares to roll his opponent over on the mat.
9. Todd Sniadecki gains control.
10. Ted Frame receives 2nd place at Van Buren Tournament in his weight class.
11. Frank Downing makes a move to stand up.
12. Matmaids lead a chant to build spirit for their team.
13. Team member goes for the pin at Defiance District competition.





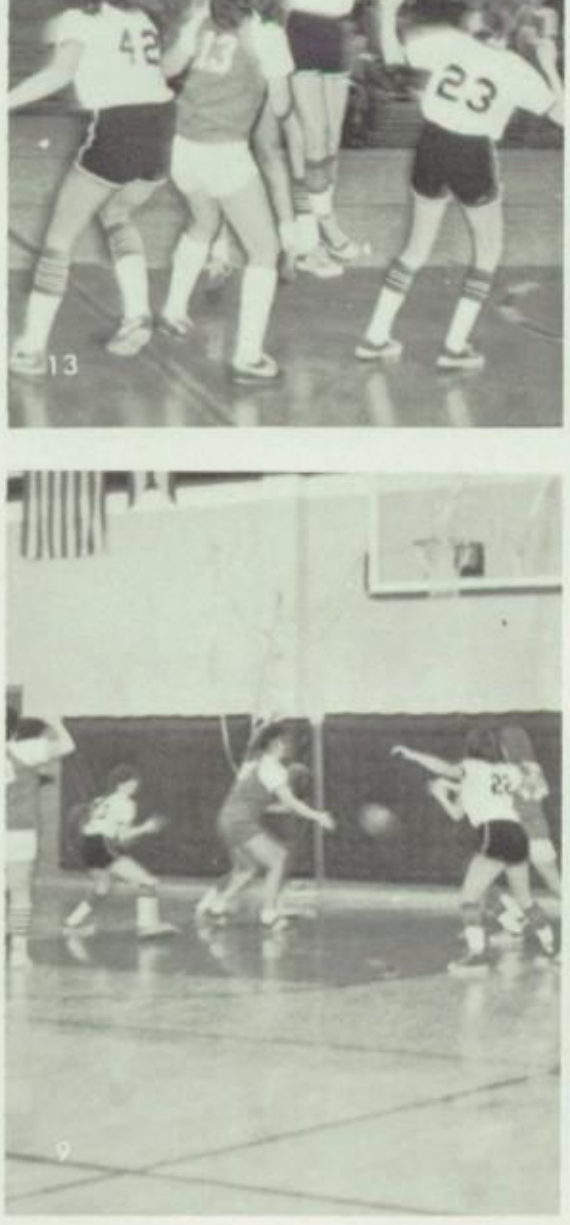




Wrestlers Send Six to District

Joe Burkard led the young Eagles in more than one way this season, after being chosen co-captain with Tim Rickman. Joe brought home BBC, Sectional and District Champion titles in the heavyweight class. Six other wrestlers survived sectional competition and represented NC at District. New to the sport this year were 12 matmaids who attended all the matches and helped in scoring a junior high and varsity triangular meet hosted by N.C. The annual trip to VanBuren brought home several awards as well. Individual meet record wasn't as impressive as tournaments, however, as the team ended with a 3 win and 7 loss record. Two of those losses, however were by three points or less and the team wrestled all season forfeiting one weight class at all meets. The team loses only 4 seniors and 5 of those who participated at District are underclassmen. The Eagle Award went to Joe Burkard as did the award for most pins, which was shared with Ted Frame. Ted Frame also received Most Improved and Jon Logan got a trophy for most takedowns.

1. Julie Stephens blocks the ball.
2. Sandy Perdew sets as Patti Pierce and DeAnna Frack get ready.
3. DeAnna Frack bumps the ball over.
4. Terry Bennett drives the court on a fast break.
5. Jill Deetz inbounds the ball against a press.
6. Terry Bennett, Julie Stephens and Tammy Sickmiller pose for pictures after Winter Awards Program.
7. Patti Pierce goes in for the lay-up.
8. Jill Deetz tips the ball to start the game.
9. Janet Mick and Tina Lashaway play defense.
10. Julie Stephens presents DeAnna Frack with a spirit award.
11. A spike by Patti Pierce is observed by teammate Rae Leidy.
12. Coach Fox and Coach Ellis, surround Sharon Oyer and Julie Stephens after fall awards.
13. Reserve team members go after the jump.



Girls Sports' Interest Builds

Girls' volleyball season ended for varsity with a 9-6 record and only one game in tournament. An experienced team was apparent as the Eagles had 7 returning lettermen. Even though they had two losses at the hands of Pettisville and Fayette, it was felt they were much better than those games showed. BBC honors went to Julie Stephens, 1st team; Patti Pierce, 2nd team; Linda Pierce and Rae Leidy, honorable mention. Eagle Award was given to Julie Stephens and Sharon Oyer, who helped the jv's to a winning record, received Most Improved. For the first time there was also an active freshman team. No break for volleyball players who also went out for basketball, except maybe a weekend. NC's varsity started slowly, losing their first 3 games, but finished strong, winning 6 of their last 7 outings and proving they could stay with the powerful teams like Edgerton and Stryker.

BBC selections for the season were Patti Pierce, Julie Stephens, Jill Deetz and Diane Bible receiving honorable mention. Julie Stephens again got the Eagle award, while Tammy Sickmiller from the jv's got the Most Improved.

3. Interest was added to some dances through the use of dry ice for a "fog" effect.

4. Dressed in their finest, but some by this time without shoes, the dancers enjoy a pause in the music.

5. "Whirlwind" entertained with some unusual visual effects.

6. Presenting a large number of faster songs, the band's singers kept the interest of even those who preferred the role of spectator to participant.

7. Scott Keesecker and his date took to the floor for this slow number.

8. Several joined in the fun of the beat.

9. DeAnna Frack, Deb Geiser and their partners made the most of this song.

10. Shawnna Nixon and her partner dance among the tinsel streamers.

11. Dave Nixon, Karen Williams, Marcia Lambright and Todd Sniadecki chose to sit one out.

Juniors Light Up Seniors' Lives With Prom

"You Light Up My Life" was the theme for the 1978 Junior-Senior Prom held May 13. The festivities began with a banquet in the Kunkle gym. The dance featured the music — and some added visual effects including the use of dry ice and even a minor explosion — of "Whirlwind." After the dance a change of clothes was called for and it was time to see the movie "The Sting" in the high school auditorium — preceded by a couple of cartoons. Finishing off the evening, or actually morning, was open bowling at Bryan Lanes until nearly 6 a.m.

Many hours were spent by the juniors turning the school cafeteria into a glittering tinsel and blue ballroom for the evening. As in past years the Junior High prom was timed for the night before and the themes coordinated to add to the atmosphere for the banquet.

Sunshine Water Pistols and Fun Create Memories

Thirty-six seniors enjoyed the sights of sunny Florida from May 20 through 23. The day before and after that they, and the 4 chaperones, probably had mixed emotions about enjoying the 24 hour bus trip. The water ski show and the gardens at Cypress Gardens was their first stop. Next was Disneyworld and all the delights of that fantasyland. Monday meant Daytona Beach and fun in the sun — at least until they felt the effects of the sun. New to the trip this year was a cookout at the International Inn, which was their hotel for the trip. The final stop was Busch Gardens at Tampa and after that dinner at an interesting restaurant where they were entertained with music on a huge pipe organ. Hours of fun, mixed with trying to keep from being in the firing line of a water pistol, and trying to find a comfortable way to sleep on the bus, will long be remembered by the class of '78.

1. Lynne Cryer, Terry Bennett, DeAnna Frack and Laura Houser are ready to load the bus for Florida.
2. Deb Mocherman and Betty Grimm pause for a moment at Cypress Gardens.
3. Sandy Perdew poses for an unusual picture.
4. Busch Gardens forms the background for some carrying on by Lynne Cryer and Dave Mitchell.
5. Kevin Downing, of course, found the beautiful girls at Cypress Gardens.
6. Several members of the class pose at Disneyworld.
7. Angie Eckley enjoyed the sun at Daytona Beach.

Sixty-Five Seniors Receive Diplomas

Sunday, May 28, 1978, completed the Class of '78's trek through high school. Activities were at 2:00 p.m. on the front lawn. Reverend Carl T. Frack gave the invocation and benediction and the message was presented by Reverend William Burson.

Cathy Reeder and David St. John were the honor student speakers. The class gift of two auditorium chairs was presented by class president, Curt Bandeen. Senior band and chorus members performed with those groups for the last time and seniors in chorus presented a special number.

Diplomas were handed out by school board president, Robert Gamboe, superintendent, Richard Harpster and principal, Rahman Dyer. Ron Huffman received his diploma from his father, also a member of the school board.

Superintendent Moves Up — To County Office

This year capped off 13 years of service to N.C. for Superintendent Richard Harpster, as he resigned in June to accept the position of Williams County Superintendent of Schools. As an organized, knowledgeable and dedicated administrator, Mr. Harpster was treated to a "remember when" session after a dinner in his honor at the Holiday Inn attended by faculty members, school employees and board members, both present and past.

Mr. Harpster, with the school board led by president, Bob Gamboe and vice-president Robert Huffman, oversaw the improvements to the school buildings, including new windows and doors in the high school aimed at energy conservation. School board members also attended their national organization's convention to increase their understanding of school management. A levy needed to meet operating expenses in the face of inflation was on the ballot in the spring, but failed. It was placed on the ballot again in August. Handling the money for the board, as in the past 13 years, was Richard Oxender, clerk of the board.

Rahman Dyer began the year at NC as high school principal and ended the summer as the new superintendent. Mr. Dyer brought with him several years of experience which was evidenced in the cooperation he inspired between faculty and students. Tom Balser again served as elementary and junior high principal, among many other duties, overseeing the Read-A-Thon which was capped off by releasing balloons naming the participant and the number of books read in the Read-A-Thon.

Secretaries Keep Things Running

Phyllis Oyer, secretary to the superintendent, also completes several years of efficient service to North Central as she will be advancing to the county office with her boss. Phyllis, however, will be staying in the system at the beginning of next term to "break in" the new superintendent. Darlene Bandeen continued to "break in" new principals as she served as secretary to the high school principal under her third boss in four years. Darlene also managed to keep the class and club financial records up to date as well as brighten the day with her informative and sometimes interesting announcement sheet. Jo Clark served in a similar capacity as secretary to the junior high and elementary principal. She also was called on throughout the year to share her talent for writing poetry with NC employees as several were honored with retirement dinners and other get-togethers.

Performance Goals Highlighted by Faculty

Starting the year with another new principal wasn't as hard on the faculty as it might have been in other years, since the only other new face greeting the students in August was Jane Hill, who had been added on a half-day basis to keep up with the larger number of students in the home economics program. With some experience at N.C. behind them, teachers faced the new school year with a new principal and a new requirement — choosing a specific performance objective to work on in their growth as professionals in the N.C. schools. Almost as soon as school began, so did membership drive efforts for the teachers' association, with high school English teacher, Shirley Penner, stepping into the duties as president. Sports and clubs kept several teachers busy as coaches and advisors, some beginning this work even before the school year officially opened. Throughout the year there were several non-classroom activities which added to the relationship between the faculty and students, including the senior-faculty basketball game (won by the faculty) and the participation of some faculty members in the more hilarious activities of the Home and Products' Show.

Flowers Replace Apples for Jr. Hi. Teachers

Adding a little excitement to the school year, Elroy Schroeder was honored by being nominated as an Outstanding Teacher in the district, Bob Meuleman's wife Alice (an elementary teacher) presented him with their first child, David, and Bob Sauder spent a couple of weeks in the hospital and several weeks walking around with a cast on his arm after an automobile accident. Teachers at Kunkle got a special treat when the student council again presented them with carnations at the end of the year.

Lunch hours of less than a half hour, baked goodies in the office, forgetting to listen to the radio on fog days, working on 2 new committees — extra curricular activities and community relations — and meeting with students and parents during conference periods added to the usual tasks of preparing lesson plans and grading papers to fill out the junior high and high school teacher's schedule.

1. Betty Smith is surrounded by several of her charges during playground duty at the Kunkle building.
2. Earl Davis stops to look at the camera while cleaning a table in the kindergarten classroom.
3. Ed Frymire, in one of the many pictures gathered in his years of service at Kunkle, is about to fill the milk machine. Ed retired in December to soak up the sun in Florida.
4. Karen Wasnich spent hours on her job keeping track of the art supplies in the teachers workroom.
5. Frank Dean smiles for the camera while doing routine summer cleaning of the elementary classrooms.

Staff Members Run the Show

Keeping the school running behind the scenes are several people, including the custodians who spend hours making everything sparkle — only to see the shine disappear with the first sign of rain or snow.

With the first day of school comes the task of driving the yellow school buses all over the northwest corner of Williams County. On PALS day, some drivers even got to pick up and drop off parents on their route. Field trips and athletic events meant extra hours for some drivers.

Fog days brought problems not only for the bus drivers but also for the cafeteria personnel. Decisions to close or not brought hassles with what to do with the food, preparation of which had to be started for some foods very early in the morning. Special meals were also served by the staff of the cafeteria at Thanksgiving and Christmas and due to a mixup, things got more "interesting" as someone forgot to dismiss the seniors early for their special meal.

Teacher aids could be counted on to help duplicate materials and could also be seen bailing water when the floods hit the kindergarten room in the spring.

Seniors Score High With Magazine Sales

Members of the class of '78 came back to school in August and some were ready for graduation already. However, there were to be several months of ups and downs before that wonderful day, May 28, 1978.

Even before the doors officially opened, the seniors were at school. They came for their sitting for senior pictures. Soon after, proofs arrived and the matter of paying for them wouldn't be far behind.

It seemed that the year had just begun, and everyone had barely enough time to get used to the old routine and a new principal and already it was time to start selling magazines. With their goals set high, many seniors made enough money to pay for their senior trip. The next matter was where to go on the trip. Florida was decided upon as the destination and the trip would be made by bus — all 24 hours of it each way.

Seniors started earning honors early in the year. Laura Houser was named 3rd runner-up in the Miss Ohio FHA contest.

In the fall it was time for the school play and of course Tim Moore could be counted on for a hilarious performance, along with several other "characters" in the class of '78. There were even some "devilish" pranks from Julie Stephens.

Seniors did well academically in the fall, with nearly 30 of them making the honor roll. Some even managed all A's.

The new band uniforms arrived and for once this wasn't something the last class or the next class got, but was really something new for the class of '78.

Winter Brings Some Problems for Seniors

Winter came and with it the winter sports. Traditionally the seniors have sponsored the first sock hop of the year. However, with the winter and all the cancellations, the seniors began to wonder if there was ever going to be a "first sock hop of the year." Homecoming brought the selection of Lori Motter as Homecoming Queen and Angie Eckley as the senior attendant. The members of the basketball team came through with the win to make the evening one to remember.

To make more money for the trip the class raffled beef. With the winter came snow and more snow and more snow. That meant some school was cancelled. Seniors, along with underclassmen, would have to make some of them up, but luckily they managed to miss one which was tacked on to the end of the year. Snow meant snowballs to some, and more than one senior had a little problem with the white stuff.

Seniors brought home more honors as Joe Burkard and Shane Sumner placed 3rd in the 4-County Tractor Trouble Shooting Contest, Deb Mocherman qualified for the state Americanism Contest, and Betty Grimm placed in the Voice of Democracy Speech Contest again.

Seniors Earn Awards

Springtime brought the counting of days to an end and also brought some more interesting events. Unfortunately the seniors were unable to down the faculty, in the traditional basketball game, but the game was close all the way. Dave Mitchell and his RAG team got together for one final performance. Then came the Home and Products show and several acts by the seniors in the Variety Show. Who will ever forget Dave Nixon's elephant calls? Spring also brought the mini course day with seniors at last getting to be the first in line to sign up. Horseback riding was added for the first time and, of course, ever popular was canoeing.

Finally it was time to hand out all the awards, with the seniors getting their share. Cathy Reeder was presented with a scholarship by the county members of sororities, Julie Stephens and Tim Moore got Drama Awards, Shane Sumner received the highest award in FFA, Kathleen Brown took the Outstanding Senior and Award of Distinction in her field at 4-County as did Mike Wilder in his field, and Kathy Scott and Dave St. John received the Outstanding Senior Awards. Many other service awards were also given to seniors.

1. Best Actor award winner, Tim Moore, prays for Drama Club's play.
2. Sandy Perdew(ski) poses with her ever-present smile.
3. Early arrivals await the bus for the senior trip to Florida.
4. "RAG" coach, Dave Mitchell, chooses his starting five in the senior-faculty game.
5. A tuba solo by Dave Nixon added to the Variety Show.

The End Came Fast for The Class of '78

Senior exams were taken and it was time to board a bus for Florida. Springtime had brought out the water pistols and even these were packed for the trip. Fun in sunny Florida — well unless you got too much sun — was the motto of those seniors who made the trip. The day after the trip it was time for graduation practice and the end was in sight.

One more major event was staged before the seniors got out — the Athletic Banquet. Lee Steinke got the Outstanding Athlete award from the Chamber of Commerce, Julie Stephens, the Gamboe Sportsmanship Award, and Angie Eckley and Curt Bandeen, the WBNO Outstanding Athlete Awards.

Graduation came at last, with Honor Students Cathy Reeder and David St. John presenting their views. Curt Bandeen presented the class gift of chairs for the auditorium. The ceremony was over and happily the class tossed their caps in the air.

Juniors

This was a year for several honors for the members of the junior class. Barb Boetz was named Outstanding Junior and honored at BGSU, Tammy Sickmiller ran for an office in State FHA, and Barb Boetz, Susan Keil, Becky Leslie, Brenda Sumner and Chris Trausch were inducted into honor society. The class was very busy with their candy sales and nearly daily reminders in the fall to put candy wrappers in their proper place. Spring brought an end to concession sales at athletic events but that was replaced with work on the prom. Earlier in the year the class sold stocking caps. Girls' State delegates were Brenda Sumner and Tammy Sickmiller with Chirs Trausch and Barb Boetz as alternates. Jeff Gunn brought home state and national honors with his science fair project. Teresa Brown captured an award as an actress and several juniors found out for the first time what it was like to ride the bus all the way to 4-County every day.

Sophomores Are Small But Mighty

When the sophomores returned to school in the fall they looked around and noticed they were the smallest class and seemed to be getting even smaller. That didn't stop some of them from challenging the other classes. Tim Ross decided his field was chess and defeated all others who entered the annual tournament. Susie Orcutt was chosen to represent N.C. at the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Seminar in Columbus. Several sophomores played on the junior varsity boys' basketball team which chalked up 16 victories. The class chose Gwen Whitis to represent them for the second year in the homecoming court. In the spring Brook Bandeen, Ted Frame, Sue Orcutt, Sharon Oyer and Scott Sparks were tapped into Honor Society. Class rings also came in the spring. A raffle was their major money making project. Marv Anderson was again their class advisor.

1. Tami Carrothers does some deep thinking.
2. Ted Frame uses his muscles in track.
3. Angie Semer and Mary Cogswell take an outdoor lunch break.
4. Donna Robison, Linda Bennett, Sue Orcutt and Gwen Whitis try to figure out what's next at pep session.
5. Sue Orcutt tries to fill out her application for the seminar.

When school began in late August it seemed to many upperclassmen that there sure were a lot of new faces around. The class of '81 entered high school big in size and big in ambition. Darwin Krill took on the challenge as their class advisor and their major money making project turned out to be a car wash which had to be postponed because of rain. This class proved to be go-getters as they joined clubs and sports and also showed they could excel in academics. Craig Conrad brought home the only superior from the state science fair, after he and another freshman Connie Spencer were rated superior in the district contest. Jamie Grimm, Amy Kwader and Roy Hylander also brought home the only district and state honors on the scholastic team, Jamie in General Science, Amy in English and Roy in Spanish.

To the Class of 78:

This page of advertising presents an irresistable opportunity to offer more than the usual compliments and congratulations. We realize that graduation is a time when "good advice" comes to you from all directions so — we'll try to keep ours short.

(1) Contrary to what you may have heard — these are the best of times and the opportunities ahead of you are the greatest that ever existed. But like beauty, seeing those opportunities depends a lot on the eye (and the positive attitude) of the beholder.

(2) You don't necessarily need to travel to the ends of the world to discover your greatest possibilities.

The people of this community, the mayor, council and businesses have been, and continue, to work hard at bringing in new industry so that the young people do not need to leave the Pioneer area to find what they are looking for.

We wish you the best of luck in whatever you do — and may you have fun doing it.

Sincerely,

The People of Kustom Fit
